

Administration building renamed for President Burnett

On September 23, Armstrong Atlantic State University will honor its fifth president, Robert Adair Burnett, by dedicating the Administration Building as Burnett Hall. The ceremony will begin at 11 a.m.

A highlight of the dedication ceremony will be the unveiling of a portrait of Burnett commissioned for this occasion. The portrait will be hung in the reception hall next to the corridor leading to the newly remodeled east wing where Burnett led the university for so many years.

New Department Head for Languages, Literature, and Philosophy

David M. Wheeler has been named head of the Department of Languages, Literatures, and Philosophy. An academic of more than twenty years, Wheeler has taught English and has served as chair of the Department of English at the University of Southern Mississippi. His area of specialization is 18th century British literature.

Wheeler earned his Ph.D. from the University of Virginia and his master's from the University of Chicago. He also studied at the graduate level at the University of London.

First Day '05 Faculty/Staff Campaign

Helen Taggart is the chair for this year's faculty/staff campaign, First Day '05. This campaign gives all university faculty and staff the opportunity to show AASU support by contributing to the annual fund. All contributions, regardless of the amount, are meaningful to the institution and can be designated to any department or scholarship.

The college or school reaching 100% participation will receive the coveted Campaign Cup. All departments reaching 100% participation, as well as those departments that show significant improvement over last year's percentage, will be recognized.

Campaign pledge forms will be mailed to all AASU faculty and staff during the first week of August. The kick-off for the First Day campaign is August 9. Everyone making a pledge or contribution on that day will receive an AASU First Day portfolio.

For more information, please contact Helen Taggart at 921.7312 or at taggarhe@mail.armstrong.edu or Gail Rountree at 927.5208 or at rourtrga@mail.armstrong.edu.

Lane Library to add to JStor

By fall 2005, Lane Library will add Arts and Sciences IV to its JStor subscriptions. Arts and Sciences IV will provide online access to the back issues of 100 journals by 2006.

JStor stands for Journal Storage and is a searchable database of digitized scholarly journals. Collections are searchable from the JStor search interface. JStor articles can be retrieved by journal title. Ask a librarian for more about finding JStor articles by subject.

JStor is useful to students and researchers interested in the scholarly journal literature of the arts and sciences, including the disciplines of history, social sciences, African-American studies, mathematics, business, law, public policy, religion, literature, and philosophy.

A 45-minute update on JStor's content and search ability will be offered to students, faculty, and staff August 31 and September 16 from 12:15 to 1 p.m. in Room 104 of Solms Hall.

Project Safe Neighborhoods Grant

With the Project Safe Neighborhoods grant, through the U.S. Department of Justice, the AASU Center for Justice Administration was able to offer training to violent crimes investigators from area law enforcement agencies. The forty-hour training course was conducted on campus May 23-27. Project Safe Neighborhoods is a nation-wide commitment to reduce gun violence by networking existing local programs that target gun crime and providing those programs with additional tools necessary to be successful. The goal is to take a hard line against gun criminals through every available means in an effort to make our streets and communities safer.
