All students wishing to receive ACS certification with their degree must submit the required final research paper to the ACS Certification Committee no later than three days before the last day of classes during the semester in which the student plans to graduate. The paper should be in its final form, having already been proofread and corrected by the student’s research advisor. The committee strongly recommends that students submit their paper to their research advisor 1 – 1.5 weeks before the final due date to allow the advisor enough time to read, make suggestions, and return the paper to the student for correction before the student submits the final version for the committee to read and approve. In addition, the ACS Certification Committee requests that the committee be notified early in the semester if a faculty member advises a student who may wish to obtain ACS certification.
