The Federal methodology assumes that the primary responsibility for paying for college costs rest with the family. Federal regulations permit the Office of Financial Aid to exercise professional judgment in determining if unusual circumstances exist and can be documented to make the student independent for federal financial aid purposes. The parents’ unwillingness to assist the student is not, in and of itself, grounds for a dependency override. Nor can a school perform a dependency override because the parents are unwilling to provide information on the application or information needed for verification. This determination is made on a case by case basis and must be verified each award year. The following reasons DO NOT merit approval for Dependency Override:

1. Parents refusing to contribute to the student’s education;
2. Parents unwilling to provide information on the application for Financial Aid or verification;
3. Parents not claiming the student as a dependent for tax purposes;
4. Students who merely demonstrate self-sufficiency without having other unusual circumstances.

The Office of Financial Aid will review your petition to determine if your circumstances warrant and your documentation supports a declaration of independence.
